DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's response filed January 27, 2003 has been considered. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from the previous office action mailed August 27, 2002 are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either newly applied or are reiterated and are the only rejections and/or objections presently applied to the instant application.

Response to Arguments

Claims 1, 2, and 5-8 stand rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goeddel et al. (U.S. Patent Number 5,563,039, applicants IDS) in view of Froehler, BC (U.S. Patent Number 5,256,775), both of record, for the same reasons as set forth in the Office action mailed August 27, 2002.

Applicants have traversed the rejection above on the grounds that while Goeddel et al. generally teach antisense inhibition of TRADD, that nowhere does Goeddel teach the use of antisense compounds 8 to 30 nucleotides in length, nor does it teach antisense targeted to SEQ ID NO:1 as identified in the present application, and therefore does not teach all the limitations of the claims. Applicant also argues that the patent of Froehler does not teach antisense targeted to SEQ ID NO:1.

These arguments are not considered convincing. As indicated in the previous Office action, one would have been motivated to make such compounds because Goeddel et al. expressly teach antisense inhibition of the TRADD mRNA transcript that is, contrary to applicants' contention, identical to applicants' claimed TRADD target of SEQ ID NO: 1 (see attached sequence alignment). Goeddel thus expressly states that one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to make antisense molecules targeted to the instant TRADD target of SEQ ID NO: 1. Froehler teaches the synthesis and use of antisense oligos that are between 8 and 30 nucleotides long to inhibit transcripts of known sequence, and further teaches how to modify such oligos in the manner claimed by applicant. As stated in the previous Office action, since Froehler teaches that such modifications confer nuclease resistance which prolongs their bioactivity, one would have been motivated make oligonucleotides that incorporate such modifications. Finally, because the steps involved in such modifications are taught by Froehler and are routine to one of ordinary skill in the art, this combination also provides a reasonable expectation of success which render the invention of the claims above obvious under 35 U.S.C. §

Applicant also argues that neither Goeddel et al. nor Froehler, when viewed individually, teach antisense oligos 8 to 30 nucleotides long that target and inhibit the expression to SEQ ID NO:1, TRADD. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). It is acknowledged that the references when viewed individually do not teach the presently claimed invention; however, the test for obviousness is what the combined teaching of the prior art would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. Goeddel et al. expressly teach antisense inhibition of applicants instant TRADD mRNA transcript. Froehler teaches making and using oligonucleotides between 8 and 30 nucleotides long that comprise applicants' modifications in a method of inhibiting a target transcript. Thus, all the elements of applicants' claims are taught by the prior art, as is express motivation, and an expectation of success. Accordingly the invention of the above claims is considered obvious under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
